

Fenno-Ugrica Suecana – Nova Series

This is the second issue of the revitalized Fenno-Ugrica Suecana series (now additionally termed ‘Nova Series’), which continues to focus on issues concerning Fenno-Ugristics and Fennistics, in a wide sense. We invite researchers, teachers and other scientifically interested persons to send us contributions for publication.

The planned annual deadlines are October 15th in the fall and February 15th in the spring. This second new issue will contain some articles and reports based on contributions delivered to the board during 2016 or earlier.

The scientific fields that we try to cover remain the ones from the earlier publications, which are the following: the Finno-Ugric languages, Fennistics, Meänkieli studies, Sámi studies and other related languages situated in Sweden and Scandinavia, but also other scientific fields that in various ways are connected to the mentioned languages and their cultures, including their literatures. We will soon establish a permanent web address through which correspondence may be sent directly to the board – until then use the addresses provided in the Instructions for Authors section of this paper.

The publication will be electronic, but designed so that the full issues will be possible to print on demand in the future.

The different types of contributions we are looking forward to receiving are these:

- scientific articles,
- review articles,
- reports,
- reviews, and
- discussion papers

The languages of publication are Swedish (Norwegian and Danish may be accepted), Finnish, Meänkieli, English, German, and possibly other Finno-Ugric languages which the editorial board may have competence in. In all cases, an English abstract should be attached to the articles. It is the responsibility of the authors to finalize the proof-reading and language-check the contributions for publication.

We target scientific articles with a length of about 20 pages (about 10 000 words), including references.

In the coming issues, we would like to also specifically invite Ph.D. students to send us for publication a research plan/description of their Ph.D. work or project (approximately 4 000 words) to be published as Reports. This presentation would facilitate the interested readers to have a grasp of what is going on at the moment in Scandinavia within the targeted fields of study.

There is a scientific board of about ten scholars (see separate presentation). There will be a process of peer reviewing of scientific articles and review articles, whereas the editorial board will by itself read and comment on the other contributions.

Of the earlier printed volumes there is a possibility to order (at the cost of posting/shipping) the following issues: nrs 3, 4, 6, 9, 11 and 12.
