F. CURRENT PROFESSIONAL INTERESTS

I see myself as a researcher and educator, as a scientific practitioner and activist. I am particularly fond of intervention research, research that deals with what works. In intervention research, I am interested in everything from universal prevention to treatment.

Specifically, I am interested in children's and young people's exposure to violence such as abuse, bullying, domestic violence and sexual violence. With such research interest, it becomes particularly important with what actually works to reduce children's and young people's exposure.
