The Bolin Centre is a multi-disciplinary consortium of over 350 scientists in Sweden that conducts research and graduate education related to the Earth's climate.

Grasslands on the rise

Valuable ancient grasslands have declined dramatically during the last century due to the modernisation and intensification of agriculture and forestry. However, a new study by researchers at Stockholm University and the Bolin Centre shows that despite these losses, new grassland is being created all the time. Along the Baltic coast, an enormous amount of potential pasture and meadow is slowly emerging from the sea. Read more about Alistair Auffret and Sara Cousins findings HERE »

Communication support for Bolin Centre scientists

As a member of the Bolin Centre you have access to various support regarding communication of your research. In short we offer:

- To highlight your research on our Twitter, Facebook and YouTube accounts and our website
- Include your research in outreach events and various communication activities
- Include your research in news to the Bolin Centre members
- Provide general communication support such as feedback to increase readability of scientific results and make it more accessible to the general public, help to evaluate if a research result is suitable for a press release, discuss how your research results can be spread through various communication channels etc.

In Swedish | Bolincentrets Klimatfestival

Populärvetenskapliga föreläsningar om högaktuell klimatforskning, klimataktiviteter med klimatforskare och mängder av klimatanknutna utställningar från olika organisationer. På Klimatfestivalen finns något för alla! Under tre dagar öppnar vi upp för allmänheten som får träffa våra klimatforskare och under roliga former lära sig mer om klimatförändringarna och vad vi kan göra åt dem.
