

News February 2023

TARFALA
RESEARCH STATION

Tarfala Research Station (TRS) is located at 1135 m asl in the Kebnekaise Mountains, northern Sweden, and is run by Stockholm University. TRS welcomes scientists from all disciplines to conduct research in a unique arctic-alpine environment.

Application open - master student grant at Tarfala Research Station

Welcome to apply for the TRS master student grant! At TRS you can investigate Swedish alpine and glacial environments, changes caused by the retreating glaciers, the impact these changes have on ecosystems and people, and much more. The grant sum is 20,000 SEK and shall be used to cover field work in connection with your master thesis, such as travels to and from TRS, accommodation at TRS and possibly additional field work cost. Application deadline is February 28, 2023. Read more and apply >>

New collaboration with STF Kebnekaise Mountain Station

This year TRS start a new collaboration, funded by Formas, with STF Kebnekaise Mountain Station. Together with STF, we offer a bookable activity for tourists who want a learning and exciting day out. STF's guides will take visitors up to Tarfala valley from Kebnekaise mountain station. At TRS our scientists welcome them with an interactive lecture about our research, glaciers and their importance for climate and environment. Read more >>

New popular science course for mountain leaders

Another exciting news for 2023 is our new 3-day long, mountain leaders' course. This is a popular science course for mountain leaders and other guides who work in Swedish mountain areas and want to learn about climate and glaciers research, and pass this knowledge on through their work as guides. The course will provide the participants with basic knowledge in climatology, physical geography and TRS's ongoing research programs, and is funded by Formas.

Summer staff at TRS – job advertisements out now
