Student stories

Stockholm University is renowned for its strong dedication to research, openness and innovation, and our faculty members are accomplished researchers who bring their expertise and passion to the lecture.

An effect of the well-known Swedish societal openness is the frequent interaction between lecturers and students as well as flat hierarchy in the classroom. This creates a more supportive learning environment for you. Renowned researchers who teach here often describe meeting the students as one of the most satisfying aspects of their job.

"My lectures integrate ongoing research, allowing students to engage the latest debates and findings in the field. The students often generate thoughtful insights that challenge me to think critically about my work and help develop new ideas to follow up on. Exposing students to timely research encourages them to produce unique ideas for thesis projects and their future career opportunities."

Angela, Master's student in Natural science, Colombia
"During my studies, I was in constant contact with the research that is performed in the department, and the lecturers are continually presenting their research topics to the students and encouraging us to participate in it. It is inspiring to see how we can apply the knowledge we are acquiring in solving real-life problems."

Elisa, Former Master's student
Middle Eastern Studies, Spain

"I took courses from different departments, which paid off, with a solid interdisciplinary profile. The teachers were professional and available to the students. I was very satisfied with the openness to questions and critics of established knowledge, and the flexibility offered in order to make family life compatible with your studies."

Pierre, Exchange student in Law, France

"My education has been influenced by the research dimension at Stockholm University. I had the opportunity to do more assignments that turned towards research and reflection."

What's your plan for the future?

"The university has strong connections with industries, organisations, and research institutions which gives us as students valuable networking opportunities and a pathway to potential career prospects."

Whatever plan you have for your future, we're excited to invite international students like you to join our community of driven and creative individuals.

If you are planning to launch an international career, Stockholm and Sweden is a great place to start. As the country's vibrant business hub, Stockholm constitutes an excellent example of Sweden's well-known culture of innovation.

Our Study and career counselling team is dedicated to helping our students succeed in the job market. They offer personal career counselling, and provide webinars about finding your career in Sweden. Also, the different departments host job fairs and networking events.

"My MA has changed my worldview towards a more informed and critical vision of world affairs. It has given me an attention to detail, especially sources of information and also broadened my horizons in terms of interdisciplinarity."

"Academically, this experience confirmed my desire to integrate an international dimension into my professional project. On a personal level, this experience allowed me to open up to the world by immersing myself in a new culture and meeting people from all backgrounds."

Student stories

"A good balance between studying and personal life"

Angela, Master's student in Natural science, Colombia

"Students can participate in extracurricular activities, join student organisations, and engage in sports or cultural events. These create a well-rounded experience that shapes us as individuals and builds lasting memories."

"Discover the Nordic way of life, and the quality of life of a big city close to nature"

Pierre, Exchange student in Law, France

"There are always activities. The associative life is rich and dynamic. I was able to participate, for instance, in the language cafe, where I was a coordinator. I really liked the possibility to practice different languages and to share the culture of my country with the organization of cafes and movie evenings."
