

Medical examinations

In accordance to AFS 2019:3 (Medicinska controller i arbetslivet), AFS 2005:16, AFS 2009:7, AFS 2018:4, and SSMFS 2018:1, specific types of work and the work with some chemicals require medical examinations. Please find the requirements in the text and tables below.

When do you need medical examination?

Vibrations
Hand intensive work
Nightshifts
Noise causing hearing loss
Strong physical activity
Work at great heights*
Contaminants
Artificial optical radiation
Ionizing radiation*
Allergy inducing chemical products that contain*: - epoxy plastic components - formaldehyde resins - methacrylate - acrylates - diisocyanate* - organic acid anhydrides* - ethyl 2-cyanoacrylate* - methyl 2-cyanoacrylate* - isocyanates which are formed during heating*
Dust that can induce fibrosis: - asbestos* - certain synthetic inorganic fibers* - quartz*
Lead
Cadmium

Department of Materials and Environmental Chemistry

Mercury
-----------

Other work deemed dangerous
-----------------------------

*For these medical examinations, the examiner has to issue an aptitude report (service ability certificate).

**The work with these metals requires a medical examination, exposure test (blood test) and aptitude report.